"Come to Me, all who are weary and heavy-laden, and I will give you rest. Take My yoke upon you and learn from Me, for I am gentle and humble in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. For My yoke is easy and My burden is light."
~ Matthew 11:28-30

Rene' and I are enjoying getting to know everyone here at the Roscoe congregation a little better. The first few months are like playing a guessing game; you know like when you guess a name or character and then turn over the little cards to see if you can make a match? It's fun but can be kind of frustrating for us old guys... just saying.

Gradually, however, the fog begins to clear, and you start making connections and learning who's who, and who belongs to who, and who all is connected to who and how, and even who lives where, and how and when to reach whoever whenever whoever is needed (did any of that make sense?). Brit is still my "lifeline" with regard to all of that, but I'm happy to say that my address book is steadily growing.

Something extremely important that Ne' and I are gradually becoming aware of are the many roads that all of you have traveled along life's way. While we try to share some of our life experiences WITH you (such as the whole story of Rachel this past weekend), we also pick up bits and pieces of information ABOUT you here and there; and we're reminded that, while we've walked many beautiful, and a few really tough, roads ourselves, some of you have walked, and are walking, those same roads... just as beautiful and just as tough—and a few even tougher.

Well, the Lord doesn't promise any of us an easy time of it, does He? When I read my Bible and listen to the words of Jesus, I get the picture that walking with Him today isn't going to be any easier than it would've been to walk with Him in person back then. But while He doesn't promise us smooth roads and a comfortable life, He does promise us peace in our hearts. We can learn a lot by sharing with one another, but what we really need is to "learn from HIM" and let Him provide His "rest for our souls."

Lord, help me take a step back, quiet my soul, breathe, listen, and learn from You ~ Phil
